

Living Legend

Ask the students to describe a famous person, who is either living at the present time or who is a fictional character. Start with a physical description and then move on to explain their personality, other qualities they have, or what they have done. Students could then be asked to write down 5 heroic tasks that person must complete.

Variations

Give students a named person to describe. This could then be compared with a person who will be discussed in the lesson (e.g. Tony Blair and Napoleon).
